FOREWORD

*" Our shadow selves,
our influence,
may fall
Where we ourselves can never be."*

The members of the Class of '63 have now come to a time in life where they find themselves surrounded by shadows. We can look back on our years at Niagara-Wheatfield and see where our shadows of influence have set a precedent for fine standards of scholarship and character. We also look to the future, and find along with our many confident hopes, some shadows of doubt concerning our higher education, our new jobs, and other new horizons. Thus, the appropriate theme chosen for the 1963 Nucleon is "Shadows."

Mr. Zimpher:

Each member of the Class of 1963 realizes how necessary our guidance counselor has been to our years at Niagara-Wheatfield. He has carefully directed each member of the Senior Class through a successful high school career. Therefore, with deep appreciation and gratitude, the Class of 1963 dedicates this, our Nucleon, to Mr. David Zimpher.

DEDICATION

Mr. McCarthy:

The Class of 1963 owes the success of its Nucleon to one who has devoted much of his time, talents, and efforts to publish this, the token of our memorable years at Niagara-Wheatfield. It is then with considerable gratitude and respect that we dedicate the 1963 Nucleon to our advisor, Mr. Thomas McCarthy.

This is a welcomed opportunity to bring to each of you greetings, congratulations and good wishes.

The years at Niagara-Wheatfield have offered opportunity for growth and enjoyment. Your record indicates you have eagerly sought new adventures in learning and sharing during your life there. The satisfactions you have found in your efforts and achievements you have had the pleasure of sharing day by day with your teachers, your family and your classmates. Your years at Niagara-Wheatfield extend over the entire lifetime of that institution and so your life there has had a particularly vital influence upon the establishment of the "traditions" by which every school gains repute and recognition. Again may I offer my congratulations?

Your Yearbook is in a way both a "milestone" and a record along your educational pathway. It is a privilege to share it with you.

Mabel Sarbaugh Lee

Colonel John Glenn, America's first space astronaut, speaking before a group of school administrators, recently commented, "The stairway to the stars is lined with school books." His advice to our high school students was to continue to use their educational opportunities in continual growth and to nurture their natural curiosities to probe the problems of the unknown.

Our class of 1963 will want to accept this challenge in searching out for the pyramiding new knowledge of its day in developing new technical skills and learning to use these in understanding man's place in tomorrow's world of space.

Each class member will have the opportunity to shape the destiny of his future by using the knowledges, skills and understandings that he has learned at Niagara-Wheatfield. I am sure that familiar names found on the 1963 class roll will be proclaimed from the communications systems of the future, praising individuals for pushing back the shadows of the unknown in areas unthought of by us. These students will bring honor to our school.

May I extend my sincere congratulations upon your graduation and wish you the greatest of success in opening the doors of the future.

Chas. R. Clark

Congratulations and best wishes to the Class of 1963. You are embarking on a way of life that will be entirely different from the past twelve or thirteen years. We trust that you have been adequately prepared to meet the challenges of college, work or family responsibilities that you are about to assume. For the most part you have received from your school training just what you have put into it. The future is up to you.

Richard H. Eden

Another milestone has been added to your endeavors as you pass through the road of life, that of graduation from our high school. This is not the end of learning. For some it may be the terminal point of formal learning, others the start of higher education. Regardless of the path you pursue, value it as one of the important experiences of your life. Never let it cease! Grasp each morsel, whether it be from novels, magazines, texts, newspapers or an instructional manual designed to aid in repairing an item. Nothing will replace books, the very foundation of all human experiences.

Respect the values of your education! Be determined that it never wither on the vine. Keep your mind nourished with the very food it grows on—knowledge.

Life is becoming more and more complex. The better you prepare yourself mentally, the greater your eventual satisfaction will flourish. The time may come again when you may return to formal learning to better yourself. If this materializes—attack your task as you have before.

God speed in all your endeavors.

SENIORS

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS AND ADVISORS—STANDING: Mr. Ross, Miss Layer, Mr. Brown. SEATED: R. Hickman, J. Wojotowicz, B. Camann, N. Salerno

SENIOR CLASS

CLASS COLORS: Royal Blue and Silver
 CLASS MOTTO: Crescat scientia, vita excolatur
 Let knowledge grow, let life be enriched.

The Class of 1963 was led by officers Nellie Salerno, Jerrienne Wojotowicz, Barbara Camann and Robin Hickman, under the capable advisorship of Mr. Brown, Mr. Ross, and Miss Layer.

The Seniors began the year's activities by holding a Halloween Masquerade Party, and continued celebrating throughout the year at occasional splash parties and other events. They entered the Student Council's Play Festival competition in November with a modern comedy entitled "You Don't Belong To Me," directed by Miss Layer. In addition, the Seniors had the distinction of presenting the first musical senior play, "Green Pastures," under the direction of Mr. Matteson with the musical assistance of Mr. Shaw and Mr. Beamish.

Money-making projects this year included a Pizza Party and dance, the annual Senior-Faculty Basketball game, and many other events.

In co-operation with the Sanborn-Pekin Junior Chamber of Commerce, nine senior girls entered Niagara-Wheatfield's first Junior Miss Contest, in which Robin Hickman won the title and the right to compete in the New York State finals.

Of course, there were also the traditional senior activities of Privilege Passes, the Nucleon, Class Day, the Senior Banquet, Senior Prom, and Graduation Exercises. All of these proved to be memorable events in the life of every member of the great Class of 1963.

JUNIOR CLASS

The ambitious Junior Class began the year by continuing the tradition of selling refreshments at the Adult Education Classes. Their first activity was the "Band Competition and Movie Night" held in October. The Junior entry in the Play Festival Competition was the successful comedy "The Perfect Couple" which took the prize for Best Play, and in which Michael Dimond won the title of Best Actor.

In December, the Class of '64 presented "International Escapade," a dance held in honor of our exchange students. They also sponsored a Candy Cane Sale during lunch periods for the Christmas Holidays.

Other Junior Activities for the year included their annual Club '64, the Junior Weekend in May, and many other activities.

OUR COMMUNITY AMBASSADORS—L. Lewis, E. Treichler, W. McCulloch, B. Calkins, S. Hubbard.

It is evident today that each country of the world has some type of government to keep its affairs running smoothly. Niagara-Wheatfield too, has its own government—the Student Council, which has already proven to be an effective and efficient organization of student government directed by Roy Patton, Pat Perusse, Phyllis Young, Sid Hubbard, and Advisor, Mr. Barone.

Throughout the school year, it has sponsored such year-long activities as: school banking, the monitor system, academic and pep assemblies, newspaper publicity for school activities, and the maintenance of the school sign. Setting up the school calendar was the first of the numerous projects and campaigns of 1962-63. During November and December, the Student Council sanctioned: the Play Festival, ushers and guides for Open House, Christmas baskets for the Salvation Army, the annual Christmas semi-formal, and the drives for the Red Cross and the March of Dimes. In 1963 they were busy organizing: a Junior High Student Council, the Teacher Exchange Day, the Betterment Campaign, the school flag contest, the Goodwill Campaign, the Foreign Exchange Program, and the Teacher Recognition Day.

MONITORS

Niagara-Wheatfield's Monitor Club this year consists of approximately one hundred selected students under the leadership of Mrs. Keller. Being alert and loyal to their school, these students form an attentive force that makes sure N-W's corridors are taken care of and properly used by the student body. Each day, the monitors sacrifice their free periods to do their work. They also raise the prestige of their school by setting high standards of proper conduct. We owe a great deal of thanks to the monitors for their efforts throughout the school year.

Its officers are Elaine Harrington, Bonnie Krizan, Vicki Carlson, Sandy Johnson; and their advisor is Mr. Brusino. This year's Pep Club activities have included the annual Booster weekend, complete with a dance, bake sale; various pep assemblies; the Father-and-Son Day; and the Pep Club dance.

FOURCAST

This year's "Fourcast" has been published by co-editors Janice Abramaitys and Jerrienne Wojtowicz and the able staff members under the direction of Mr. Frisina.

It served to report news of the current school activities and at the same time provided valuable opportunities for our students to develop their talents in journalism. This year, for the first time, the "Fourcast" contained pictures which added to its interest and attractive appearance.

Our "Fourcast" has won several awards, including a blue ribbon at the Interscholastic Press Association Conference, and being named runner-up for the Gannet Award at the St. Bonaventure Press Conference.

Niagara-Wheatfield is very proud of its fine school publication and the hard-working "Fourcast" staff.

NUCLEON

Here it is! Another Niagara-Wheatfield Nucleon! The members of the Class of '63 have been anxiously awaiting that first glimpse of the yearbook containing their pictures and recording all their senior activities.

This Nucleon has even more meaning to our hard-working yearbook staff. It will be a long time before Diane and Natalie are able to forget the memories and frustrations of posing those large group pictures, trying to identify each student in every picture, and meeting those inevitable deadlines that always came too quickly.

However, the year was not all hard work. We will never forget the thrill of seeing our finished yearbook and the realization that it was all the result of the combined efforts of the members of our wonderful staff and advisors.

EPILOGUE

Something there is that doesn't like a yearbook
pictures get lost
staff members get lost teachers go home promptly at 2:30 copy is late and there's always one person in a group photograph that no one can identify.

Why is it that editors always have more homework than any one else (on deadline weekend)?

Why must the sign on the yearbook room say
"C-8" giving everyone the impression that it's a classroom?

Why do teachers have an aversion to cameras,
And why must Natalie become ill in the middle of March when the final deadline is coming fast?

Something there is that doesn't like a yearbook

Editors do

We like the slick, glossy finish of the pictures of things that happened yesterday and today and will go on happening and of faces that we don't want to forget and of teachers we have enjoyed writing term papers for and book reviews for and pop quizzes for

We like the look of a page laid out and headlined and typed and imagining how it will look when . . .

And we like to know that the yearbook is the school's and the students' and (Best of all) ours

Funny, How many people will read it (we hope) and look at the pictures (if they can take them) and laugh and remember

And we know that we have Planned and Worked for it, hoping for approval with no disillusionment.

WE WERE NINTH GRADERS

WE WERE ORIGINAL:

When it snows
The wind blows
Harris Wienke

Forgotten Poem
I had an idea for a poem,
Now I forgot it,
Now I'll go home.
Charles Donner

School was a joke,
School was a riot.
That's what I thought
Until I tried it!

I thought it was fun
To joke all the time
Till Pop saw my 'port card
That ended my rhyme!
Nellie Salerno

Steal away,
Steal away,
Steal away, Where?
Why?
Steal away
To steal a pearl!
Elizabeth Treichler

While walking in the park
Harris saw a lark
Then it got dark
So he shot the lark
Now during the day
Harris found out it didn't pay
For he was hailed
And by a cop he was jailed.
Walter Zink

The night was dark,
The sky was blue,
And over the street the fruit wagon flew,
A crash! A bang! A horrible screech!
The driver was hit with a flying peach!
Bonnie Jo Bryner

WE WERE SERIOUS

The Wind

The wind's my friend,
The wind's my foe,
It follows me
Wherever I go.

The wind's my friend,
The wind's my foe,
It moves fast
And it moves slow.

The wind's my friend,
The wind's my foe,
It sings high
And it sings low.

The wind's my friend,
The wind's my foe,
Over the sea
And over the snow.

The wind's my friend,
The wind's my foe,
It brings joy
And it brings woe.

The wind's my friend,
The wind's my foe,
It follows me
Wherever I go.

Jeanne Yarnall

Morning

Sunbeams through an open window
Green grass sprinkled with beads
of dew,
Blue skies, bright eyes, new day,
new way
What does morning mean to you?

Janice Glass

The Lake at Dawn

Of all the scenery I've seen,
The one that I like most
Is to see the stillness of a lake,
And watch the misty ghost.

For early in the morning,
When dawn begins to break,
I like to sneak outdoors,
And walk down to the lake.

And there I like to stand
As dawn begins to break,
And watch the misty ghost arise
From off the quiet lake.

Larry Grandin

What is the gift of God
That lures me on
To seek hidden treasure
With every new dawn.
What is the urge
That takes hold of my will
And forces me upward
And over each hill.
Am I a slave,
With those of my kind
Who also are lured on
By what they may find?
Am I a smaller part
Of Great Design
That cannot be fathomed
By mere human mind?
I am an eagle
Who flies on the ground
And who searches the earth
So that things might be found.
I am a man
And by God's mighty will
I'll continue to climb
Over each new found hill.
